MINISTRY OF COMMERCE

PUBLIC NOTICE

IMPORT TRADE CONTROL

New Delhi, the 25th October 1967

Sub.—Import of permissible items of instruments, equipment and accessories by technical consultancy firms engaged in overseas operations.

No. 152-ITC(PN)/67.—A number of technical consultancy firms have come up in this country and are already undertaking the preparation of technical feasibility reports, project reports, technical documentation on plant lay-out and processing, preparation of technical specifications for materials and products, designing and drawing, etc., in the field of civil construction and manufacturing industries. A few of these firms have also begun making a contribution to the earning of foreign exchange by undertaking activities on behalf of foreign customers.

2. It has been represented that these technical consultancy firms, especially those who undertake services abroad in competition with similar firms of other developed countries, are experiencing difficulties in obtaining their requirements of design and drawing office equipment and instruments, crection and installation equipment, tools and accessories, in the absence of which they are not in a position to offer efficient services abroad. The matter has been considered and it has been decided that requests for issue of ad-hoc licences for import of permissible items of design and drawing office equipment and instruments, erection and installation equipment, tools and accessories, actually required and not indigenously available, may be considered on an ad-hoc basis from technical consultancy firms undertaking foreign operations and earning foreign exchange. Applications may be made by such arms to the Headquarters Licensing Division of the Office of the Chief Controller of Imports and Exports in the application form annexed.
